3. Responsible for producing intelligence to plan, conduct, and evaluate clandestine operations in Eastern Europe and South-eastern Europe. Specifically, charged with the conduct and supervision of original research from basic sources undertaken to produce required intelligence. The latter includes the whole range of basic or current information on these areas not available through current collection. To meet this responsibility, I consult directly with EE and SE Divisions to advise on intelligence support capabilities, assist in the intelligence planning for operations, and seek solutions to all problems in the intelligence support of these divisions. I handle for these divisions those requests for research and information which can be satisfied by other government offices or by external contact, or myself conduct and/or supervise research to include analysis. The latter may relate to any functional field of intelligence.
